The Downfall of Cutter Jackson (The Jackson Brothers Book 3) By Kelly Hunter

How can he protect his family when he no longer knows what family is?

Cutter Jackson's perfect world is crumbling. A new-found half-brother, a father short on answers, and a woman who challenges his every word will do that to a man. He's losing his authority, his morality and his restraint with every breath. And there's still Christmas and New Year to navigate.

Street-savvy Mia Blake isn't looking for a place in the family Cutter loves so much. As for the lust that sparks between them, Mia's more than happy to fan those flames and drive them both a little nuts. She can handle it. She can handle him right up until the moment Cutter decides he wants more than a holiday fling...

Editorial Review

Review

"Cutter is my favourite Jackson brother. Big, bossy, strong, opinionated and loving... He's firmly at the helm of things in the Jackson empire, and everyone falls in line quite nicely, thank you very much. Well, mostly." (Sharon, Australian Romance Readers Association feature review)

"Pro: Kelly Hunter book. Cons: ugh." (B+ from Bam Galace, The Good, The Bad, and The Unread) --My favourite book review ever. Clever, imaginative, rapier funny and deliciously critical.

From the Author

Hi Readers,

I was aiming for a particular kind of guy in Cutter Jackson. A man of easy confidence and a thorough awareness of what he brings to a relationship. He's easy on the eye and has a strong regard for family. He has a liking for women, and I mean that in the purest sense. He likes what they bring to his alpha-driven, physical world. He's open to them. And when finally he finds the one he wants, he's all in. I hope you like him.

I've one more book to write in this series--big brother Nash's story, and then it's done.

The Jackson Brothers

Book 1: The Courage of Eli Jackson (Previously titled The Honeymoon Trap. Publishers Weekly - one of the 20 Best Books of 2014)

Book 2: The Heart of Caleb Jackson (Previously titled Sympathy for the Devil. Romance Writers of Australia - ELLA Finalist 2015)

Book 3: The Downfall of Cutter Jackson (Previously titled A Bad Boy for Christmas)

From the Inside Flap

A guy walked beside him, same dark hair and rangy build as Caleb, same height, possibly a fraction taller. And when he turned towards them and Cutter got a load of his face--

Same face he saw every morning when he looked in the goddamn mirror.

"Who the hell are you?" Cutter watched in growing disbelief as his doppelganger spared a look for the woman in the doorway and with the slightest shift of his head, told her to get gone.

She didn't budge.

"My brother asked you a question." Eli broke the silence, his gaze fixed on the man at Caleb's side.

The man scowled and ran a hand across the back of his neck, and there was a gesture Cutter knew intimately. This--whoever he was--had Cutter's face and his habits.

"The name's Nash."

Even the voice was similar. Not quite as threatening as his. Maybe not quite as gruff. And then the man lowered his hand and his gaze locked on Cutter.

"My name is Jackson Nash and I'm looking for my father. Anyone want to point me in Geoff Jackson's direction?"

Fist. Face. Even if it was his own face. Cutter started forward, only to be met by Eli's shoulder-check and a firm hand wrapped around his bicep.

"Does it look like he's lying to you?" Eli muttered, low and rough, before letting go and turning to face the bastard who went by the name of Jackson. "He's not here. He's not in town. He's in England."

Cutter heard a not-so-delicate snicker coming from over near the door, and spared a menacing glare for the redhead.

"Course he is," she murmured.

"You still haven't said who you are." Cutter's words were a writhing mix of anger and confusion and he didn't spare her any of it. Not as if she was being helpful.

"Me?" She made a show of pressing her hand to the sundress that barely covered her utterly perfect chest. "I'm Nash's sister."

No. Hell, no. "Lady, no one around here ordered a sister."

She moved, pure challenge as her hands went to her hips. Her breasts heaved and he really had to stop looking at them. "Well, you'd hardly order one the same way you'd order pizza, now would you?"

"I'm guessing she's not going to be one of those sweet, docile sisters who bakes cake and puts her brothers on a pedestal," murmured Caleb, with a darkly amused glance in her direction. "Pity."
